The local Indigenous artist continuum Hekiu won the award for Best Community Group/Organization at the 26th annual Tempe Human Relations Commission MLK Diversity Awards Ceremony on January 8 at the DoubleTree by Hilton Hotel in Tempe.

The annual awards are hosted by the City of Tempe and the Human Relations Commission. They honor people and organizations that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion and exemplify the spirit of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Hekiu—meaning “past” in the O'odham language—aims to create accessibility and visibility for O'odham, Piipaash, Yoeme and other local Indigenous voices.

The group is a collective of artists with particular specialties who work with organizations and municipalities to achieve mutual benefits between Indigenous peoples and supporting stakeholders.

“It’s important for the group to receive this award as part of our intention to not only create compilation of oral histories, recalled how Martin Luther King, Jr. talked about the mistreatment of Native Americans in his 1963 book Why We Can't Wait.

In the book, King said, "Our nation was born in genocide when it embraced the doctrine that the original American, the Indian, was an inferior race. Even before there were large numbers of Negroes on our shores, the scar of racial hatred had already disfigured colonial society. From the sixteenth century forward, blood flowed in battles of racial supremacy. We are perhaps the only nation which tried as a matter of national policy to wipe out its indigenous population. Moreover, we elevated that tragic experience into a noble crusade. Indeed, even today we have not permitted ourselves to reject or to feel remorse for this shameful episode. Our literature, our films, our drama, our folklore all exalt it."

The awards ceremony included a performance of the Black National Anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing," by Sandra Bassett, as well as a hoop dance performance by members of Indigenous Enterprise.

Other award winners were Tempe High School math teacher Laurie Dadd and Tempe Black Employee Alliance founder Lisa Groom in the Individual Adult category, peer leader Robert Trujillo in the Individual Youth category, and Tanja B. Halloway, owner of Cut To A T barbershop, in the Business Organization category.

Up next for Hekiu is a large mural project in collaboration with the City of Tempe based on a timeline of the history of the city, as well as working with Tempe's Transportation Department to redesign 30 to 40 bus shelters.

The Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community dance group Bird Singing and Dancing by the River has completed their winter 2023 season of performances throughout the Valley.

Ki-Ana Reina assisted the dance group as they traveled to Ak-Chin Indian Community in December to participate in the annual Masik Tas Celebration, taking part in the final closing ceremony.

"The songs and dances come from the Maricopa style of bird singing and dancing, which are a part of the tribes along the Colorado River," said Reina.

Following their performance in Ak-Chin, the group traveled back home to perform at the Community's 2023 New Year's Eve celebration.

The group was founded in 2003 by Annette and Lynwood Vest, and many of the traditions established in those early years are still followed today. "They (Annette and Lynwood Vest) formed the group to help the children in the Community understand and know more about Maricopa and O'odham songs and dances," said Reina. She proudly added, "As of today, the dance group Bird Singing and Dancing by the River is in its third generation of singers and dancers."

Now that the new year is here, the group is preparing for another calendar year of performances across the Valley and Indian Country. Performers and dancers of all ages are welcome. "The group is always open to those who are wanting to learn," said Reina. The youngest member is 2 years old, and the oldest members are young adults finishing school.

Practices take place Wednesday evenings at Friendship Park.

Community Recreational Services Winter Break Camp Keeps Kids Active

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO
O'odham Action News
chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

The Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community's Community Recreational Services (CRS) rolled out their Winter Break Camp December 27-29 and January 2-5, providing opportunities for kids in the Community to stay active while they're on school vacation.

Many of the camp activities took place at the Way of Life Facility (WOLF), while others were off-site. Activities that the kids looked forward to included hiking, a movie, a trip to a skate park, a maker's fest, a Pokémon Go Hunt field trip, a WOLF Wonderland, and gym games with the CRS Athletics Division.

O'odham Action News followed CRS Athletics staff as they interacted with campgoers in a variety of 30-minute group games on the basketball court in the WOLF gym.

Two groups, kids ages 8 to 12 and 13 to 15, took turns playing out on the court with games that included basketball, capture the flag, kickball and a special gym version of Hungry, Hungry Hippos.

For Hungry, Hungry Hippos, the kids met at half-court with carts that had wheels on them to act as the hungry hippo collectors, emulating the classic board game as participants grabbed pretend food items placed out on the court as quickly as they could.

CRS Athletic Manager David Willis said that it's good for the kids to get out this time of year.

"I know [that] a lot of times after Christmas, they want to be at their house playing video games. But we try to keep them active," said Willis. "Getting them out here to hang out with their friends, talk about what they got for Christmas and enjoy doing some physical activity is always good for them."

Kids at the SRPMIC Community Recreational Services (CRS) Winter Break Camp dive into a game of Hungry, Hungry Hippos at half court.

CRS staff hoop it up with kids to create positive memories and help them maintain a healthy and active lifestyle.

"Bullseye!" One of the kids from the CRS Winter Break Camp nails a perfect throw to knock a ball loose from its base.

CRS Athletic Manager David Willis places pieces from the Hungry, Hungry Hippos game at half court as kids gear up to play the game.

Seniors Enjoy Pajamas and Donuts Breakfast Party

Seniors arrive in comfortable pajamas and enjoy delicious donuts at the first Senior Breakfast of the year at the Lehi Community Center on January 3.

Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community seniors celebrated the beginning of 2024 with their first Senior Breakfast of the new year at the Lehi Community Center on January 3.

The seniors rolled out of bed with hungry stomachs for this month's theme, a special pajamas and donut party. There was plenty of both to go around.

Senior Services Community Liaison Jessica Martinez began the breakfast by leading a stretching session with the seniors. After that, SRPMIC Council Member David Antone led the morning prayer.

While the seniors ate their breakfast, staff from the Air Quality Program of the SRPMIC Environmental Protection and Natural Resources Department/Community Development Department passed around a Climate Pollution Reduction Plan survey, asking the seniors to help them create a plan to reduce greenhouse-gas emissions within the Community.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency awarded the SRPMIC a $400,000 Climate Pollution Reduction Grant to develop a plan to reduce vehicle emissions and other harmful air pollution in the Community.

Also at the breakfast were members of the CDD Code Compliance Division, who gave an overview of how they conduct outdoor homesite inspections for health and safety compliance and environmental hazards.

'Rethink Your Drink' Classes Suggest Healthier Beverage Options

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO
O'odham Action News
chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, sugary drinks are the leading source of added sugars in the American diet.

In order to combat these added sugars, Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Diabetes Prevention Services put together a series of classes on November 13, December 11 and January 8 to help people learn about healthier ways to stay hydrated.

During January's class, participants learned just how many teaspoons of sugar are in certain drinks and how many minutes of brisk walking it takes to burn off the drink at a speed of 3.5 mph.

"When we're talking 3.5 mph, we're talking about a really good walk," said Community Health Educator Karina Watson of Health and Human Services Diabetes Prevention Services as she briskly walked around the tables, demonstrating the pace needed to burn off the sugar.

For example, a bottle of sweetened tea has about 213 calories and 14 teaspoons of sugar per container size. It would take about 46 minutes to burn off the sugar walking at that pace.

Most beverages that are high in sugars, except 100% fruit juice, provide empty calories and increase your risk of obesity and tooth decay, according to Watson. While fruit juices do contain some vitamins and minerals, it's better to eat the whole fruit, which is a good source of fiber, rather than drink the juice.

Beverages that Watson said are good options for zero teaspoons of added sugar include water, black coffee, seltzer, sugar-free drink mix, sugar-free lemonade and unsweetened tea.

Because many people don't like to drink plain water, at the end of the event, Watson handed out infused water bottles and cutting boards for participants to chop up fruits and vegetables to place in their water bottles to add the natural flavors. With infused water, you can soak the ingredients in water and enjoy them right away or let them soak in the water for a couple of hours, or overnight for a more intense flavor.

Participants in the January 8 "Rethink Your Drink" class discuss the sugar content of the beverages placed on the table in a classroom at the Way of Life Facility.

First Foods, First Fridays with Skoden Coffee

BY NALANI LOPEZ
O'odham Action News
Nalani.lopez3@srpmic-nsn.gov

On the first Friday of the month, January 5, the River People Health Center brought in Skoden Coffee for the First Foods, First Fridays cooking class.

As the name suggests, the classes take place on the first Friday of each month and highlight pre-contact foods, or foods that existed in the Americas and were eaten by Indigenous peoples prior to colonization.

The RPHC Nutrition Services team invited Indigenous- and Queer-led business Skoden Coffee as the first presenter in the class series. Skoden Coffee is a coffee shop that was originally located in Window Rock on the Navajo Nation and now has reopened in Phoenix, near Central and Camelback roads.

Inspired by their traditional Diné teachings, the coffee collective used two pre-contact foods, blue corn and the plant thelesperma, to prepare blue corn donuts and Diné tea.

The donuts, made from a mixture of juniper ash and blue corn, are an example of the process used by Indigenous peoples called nixtamalization. During preparation, the juniper ash activates the maize (corn) and allows the body to properly absorb vitamin B3 (also called niacin) and obtain the full nutritional benefits of corn.

"Nixtamalization is such a cool thing that Native people have been doing forever that colonizers did not know about," said RPHC Nutritionist Kat Latour. "Vitamin B3 from the corn is not able to be absorbed without the ash. Without [vitamin B3], you would get pellagra, a nutritional deficiency."

Thelesperma, the plant used in Diné tea, is steeped until it reaches a rich red color. In addition to the Diné people, Skoden Coffee barista Natasha John shared that the tea is traditionally used by tribes like the Hopis and Pueblo peoples for digestion and menstruation relief. John joked, "We would have made you some of our coffee, but we didn't want to keep you up all night."

As Skoden barista Jordan Manuelito finished baking the blue corn donuts, she prepared a glaze made of frozen berries and a diabetic-friendly sweetener made from monkfruit.

Latour added, "When it comes to diabetes management, I would argue it's always better to choose the substitute rather than the regular sugar. Even if it does raise your blood sugar a little, it is not going to raise it as much as a regular sugar would. And that is the priority."

Skoden Barista Jordan Manuelito finishes the blue corn donuts with a berry glaze made with assorted berries and monkfruit sweetener.

The Skoden Coffee blue corn donuts were made from a mixture of blue corn and juniper ash.

After preparation, the students in the class were then treated to the blue corn donuts, a warm cup of fresh Diné tea, and some newfound knowledge of foods that have long sustained nutrition in Native communities.

For more classes like these, stay tuned to the River People Health Center to attend future First Foods, First Fridays demos. Classes will cover more pre-contact foods like cholla buds, tepary beans and Pima 60-day corn.

SRPD Hosts Youth Day at the Way of Life Facility

Miss Salt River Kennise McGertt and SRPMIC Youth tried their best to win the tug-of-war mini-game against members of Youth Services and Salt River PD during the Youth Day Celebration at the Way of Life Facility.

BY JUAN YSAGUIRRE
O'odham Action News
juan.ysaguirre@srpmic-nsn.gov

Earlier this month, the Salt River Police Department and the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Youth Services Department joined forces to celebrate Community youth during the 2024 SRPD Youth Day celebration.

The morning of January 4 proved to be over-cast and a bit chilly, with the high for the day eventually reaching only 60 degrees. Thankfully, by the time the fun-filled celebration began at 10 a.m. at the Way of Life Facility's Little League field, the sun had begun to peek out of the clouds to provide the kids with just enough sunshine for their day.

The SRPD and SRPMIC Youth Services staff established five courses of gameplay for the kids to enjoy. Kids were grouped together by age and played with members of Youth Services and the SRPD for 30 minutes at each station. Kickball, flag football, soccer, tug-of-war, and a hula-hoop beanbag obstacle course for the little kids were all part of the fun.

Jr. Miss Salt River Jizelle Juan and Miss Salt River Kennise McGertt were in attendance and participated in all of the stations. While playing flag football, Juan showed off her impressive arm strength by throwing a few touchdowns.

Later, the two royalty queens playfully went head-to-head in the obstacle course footrace, which they both competed barefoot. With their crowns held off to the side by the Salt River Pageant Committee for safekeeping, the young ladies laughed for the entire length of the course as they were cheered on by everyone. Afterwards, they separated into teams at the tug-of-war station and continued to visit the rest of the stations during the event.

Lunch was provided to the kids, and there were opportunities to win prizes such as a Phoenix Mercury beanie, basketballs, water bottles and a brand-new bicycle.

Computer Classes Available for Community Seniors

During the January 11 class, seniors learned how to use the Microsoft Word application for document templates.

BY NALANI LOPEZ
O'odham Action News
Nalani.lopez3@srpmic-nsn.gov

Are you a senior (age 55+) in the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community who is looking to improve your computer skills? Once a month, at both the Salt River Senior Center and at the Red Mountain Computer Lab in Two Waters Building A, the SRPMIC IT Department Customer Care Division will be hosting a series of classes in computer basics for Community seniors.

The IT Customer Care division welcomes seniors of all skill levels and learning styles.

"The ultimate goal is to allow seniors to learn at their own pace. We encourage the seniors to let us know what technology subjects they want to learn," said IT Customer Care Supervisor Alana Osife.

As of now, the classes cover subjects in Microsoft applications, Internet safety, mobile apps, art applications, mobile phones, email and photo editing.

However, Osife says the class subject material is open to change and can be steered toward other areas. "As long as there is interest from our seniors, we will offer the training for them," said Osife.

In addition to training on the computer, IT Customer Care also wants to make learning technology fun.

"We like to incorporate an activity that pertains to the subject we just learned. For example, if we learned Microsoft Word, we have the seniors type simple paragraphs, use the document templates, or practice keyboard and mouse skills," said Osife.

Interested seniors can attend the upcoming classes at either the Salt River Senior Center or at Two Waters. To arrange transportation, contact the Senior Services Department at (480) 362-6350.

29th Annual Indian Nations & Tribes Legislative Day

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO

chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

It was a brisk morning on the grounds of the Arizona Capitol as hundreds of people, mostly from Arizona's tribal communities, huddled around warming stations, sipped coffee and ate frybread at the 29th Annual Indian Nations & Tribes Legislative Day on January 10.

According to the Arizona Governor's Office on Tribal Relations, which hosted the event, Indian Nations & Tribes Legislative Day celebrates the rich culture and history of Arizona's tribes and addresses issues of mutual interest between tribes, state agencies and community members.

The event began with a resource fair outside the Capitol, where state agencies and local businesses handed out information. One of the booths at the fair was the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community's Foster Care Program. Staff handed out pamphlets detailing the services provided, as well as stickers with their logo on it.

Members of the Young River People's Council (YRPC), the youth council for the SRPMIC, were also present at the event.

"We're here to shadow Council leaders and listen in on other tribal leaders' issues they have in Indian Country," said YRPC Vice-President Roman Judge.

Judge hoped to learn from the youth workshop "Lighting the Fire: Bringing Light to Your Community Through Advocacy," presented by United Indian Tribal Youth (UNI-TY, Inc.) later in the day in one of the Senate caucus rooms.

People lined up outside the Arizona House of Representatives, which hosted a joint protocol session from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Once inside, they packed the seats above the House floor.

The Chi'Chino Spirit O'odham Singing Group opened the session with a traditional song before American Legion Post #114 Bushmasters, from the SRPMIC, presented the colors on the House floor.

Miss Indian Arizona Laney Lupe (White Mountain Apache) led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Vice-President Paul Russell from the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation gave the invocation.

After opening remarks by Speaker of the House Ben Toma and Senate President Warren Petersen, SRPMIC President Martin Harvier, Hualapai Tribe Chairwoman Sherry Parker and Ak-Chin Indian Community Chairman Robert Miguel gave their tribal nations addresses, sharing their communities' perspectives on important tribal issues.

"Today is a new beginning for tribal nations to engage the State of Arizona's legislature on common issues we share and to seek reasonable solutions to have a mutually beneficial outcome," Harvier said in his address. "The core of this effort is the phrase 'A rising tide lifts all boats'—that is to say all of us benefit from each other's successes."

Harvier also recognized the members of the Young River People's Council during his speech and thanked them for being there.

After the session was over, attendees ate lunch on the House Lawn, sponsored by the Arizona Indian Gaming Association, while the South Image Waila Band from the Tohono O'odham Nation performed.

In the afternoon, breakout sessions with panels of representatives from Arizona state agencies took place in the House of Representatives hearing rooms, giving an opportunity for people to meet leadership from a variety of state agencies and hear about the work they do with tribal communities.

SRPMIC Hosts Webinar Discussing Sex Trafficking

BY JUAN YSAGUIRRE
O'odham Action News
juan.ysaguirre@srpmic-nsn.gov

"This topic is heavy," began Memory Dawn Long Chase, domestic violence response director for the Southwest Indigenous Women's Coalition (SWIWC). The organization is the domestic and sexual violence coalition serving Indian tribes in Arizona. Since 2006, SWIWC has worked on issues relating to the safety, justice and healing of tribal communities regarding missing and murdered Indigenous women and the LGBTQIA+ and Two-Spirit community.

Sex trafficking in Indian Country is defined as "the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, obtaining, patronizing or soliciting of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act."

The webinar on sex trafficking drew more than 50 people who attended online via Microsoft Teams. An enrolled member of the Standing Rock Sioux tribe, Long Chase referred to Indigenous victims of sex trafficking as "our relatives" and spoke with professionalism regarding the sensitive topic. "If at any point in this presentation you feel the need to step aside and get some fresh air, that's okay," stated Long Chase before she began.

Long Chase first dove into some factors that make people more vulnerable to sex trafficking in Indian Country. "For our relatives, 'passing as many different ethnicities,' 'adolescents lacking supervision' and 'being a runaway or unhoused youth' are all factors that can lead to being harmed," she said.

Community Health Educator Vurlene Notsinneh-Bowekaty of SRPMIC Health and Human Services Suicide Prevention and Intervention provided a current example when she discussed an article she recently read. "The article that said families were using their own children to be sex trafficked so they could bring finances in ... to pay for bills and food," she said. "It's shocking."

During the webinar, Monica Lewis asked for sex trafficking stats in the Community. Salt River Police Department Lt. Kevin Westberg was attending the webinar and was able to speak to the group. Though he did not provide the official numbers, he did state that the most recent NFL Super Bowl in Arizona, Memory Dawn Long Chase was the guest speaker for two webinars during the week of January 8.

played last February 12 in Glendale, had "many task forces completing investigations and were [kept] busy" during the event.

Notsinneh-Bowekaty thanked Lt. Westberg for addressing the group and added, "[Sex trafficking] is here. We don't know who might be doing it, but it is happening."

Long Chase offered a few ways to help increase awareness and support our relatives who have been victims of sex trafficking. "Our youth need to be educated," she said. "We know it's happening in all of our communities."

It was at Long Chase's suggestion that all SRPMIC staff and Community members, and really everyone in Indian Country, become more educated about sex trafficking. "Parents, casino staff and security, tribal councils, our education departments, and our divisions of public safety like police and fire all need to be aware of the signs so we can better protect our relatives," she said.

She then finished with culturally responsive ways to support survivors of sex trafficking. "We have to remember they are victims, not criminals. So, we can support them by asking what they need and offering them medical and psychological resources, as well as traditional healing resources if possible. We must take care of our relatives."

Westwood JV Girls Lose Heartbreaker Game Against Cibola

playing time against Cibola during Westwood’s JV game on January 11. Moore handled the ball like a true point guard, commanding the court like a field general. Thomas controlled the paint like a dominant center, battling for every rebound and boxing out her opponents.

Cibola battled hard and converted many of Westwood’s turnovers into points. By halftime, only a handful of points separated the two teams. Late in the third quarter, Moore turned it up by stealing the ball for an easy layup going into the fourth quarter. The home crowd exploded with applause after Moore’s easy bucket, which gave Westwood the lead.

But Cibola’s defense was tenacious as they double-teamed Moore and Thomas in the fourth quarter, resulting in turnovers and missed jump shots for Westwood. In the final moments of the game, Moore attempted a 3-pointer that would’ve given the Warriors the lead, but the ball bounced off the backboard and into the arms of Cibola.

Westwood had one final attempt to win the game in the final seconds. They called a timeout after a Cibola turnover and drew up a play for Thomas to try to send the game into overtime. Thomas would make the basket; however, the referees did not call a foul on the final possession of the game, and the Westwood JV girls would go on to lose in a very close finish, with a score of 32-34.

The JV girls basketballers will continue to battle on the court throughout January and February. Their next home game will be against the Mesa High School Jackrabbits on January 18. They have an away game against Red Mountain the following day, and then they return back home for a game against Dobson High on January 23.

On a fast break play, Taylor Moore stops on a dime to shoot a jump shot over her Cibola opponent.

In the fourth quarter with only seconds remaining, Taylor Moore dives for a loose ball to call a timeout.

“Hey, mister! Can you take our photo?” said the Westwood JV girls basketball bench during a timeout in the third quarter.

SALT RIVER PIMA-MARICOPA INDIAN COMMUNITY

Judicial, Attorney, and Advocate Conduct and Discipline Commission
(JAACDC)
c/o The Office of the General Counsel
10005 East Osborn Road / Two Waters Building A, Suite 302 / Scottsdale, Arizona 85256-9722

JUDICIAL, ATTORNEY AND ADVOCATE CONDUCT AND DISCIPLINE COMMISSION 2023 ANNUAL REPORT

In accordance with Section 4-35(h), of the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community (“SRPMIC”) Code of Ordinances, the Judicial, Attorney and Advocate Conduct and Discipline Commission (“Commission” or “JAACDC”) files and presents to the Council its annual report for 2023. As required by the Code of Ordinances, this report includes the following information: (1) the number of complaints received by the Commission; (2) the number of complaints filed against each judge; and (3) the final outcome of the Commission’s review regarding all complaints filed including complaints that were determined to not have merit, and other related information the Commissions deemed appropriate.

TWO COMPLAINTS IN 2023

Complaint 1: Following revisions to the former Judicial Conduct and Discipline Commission (“JCDC”) Ordinance, which expanded jurisdiction to include review of matters relating to attorneys and advocates, on July 24, 2023, the Office of the General Counsel referred a matter (“Complaint 1”) filed by a judge. Complaint 1 alleged the entire Defense Advocates Office (“DAO”) of the Salt River Pima Maricopa Indian Community violated the Advocate Rules of Professional Conduct (“RPC”). Complaint 1, raised allegations against the DAO and two named individuals. The primary issue raised in Complaint 1 was whether a perceived pattern, practice or protocol of the DAO violated the RPC, whether Defense Advocates had been induced to break the rules and in fact engaged in resulting misconduct.

The Commission examined issues related to:

- Scope of Representation (RPC, IV)
- Diligence (RPC, V)
- Communication (RPC, VI)
- Confidentiality of Information (RPC, VII)

Ultimately, however, the Commission determined that little to no guidance existed currently to determine what is and is not a violation under SRPMIC Rules. Therefore, the Complainant could not meet the burden of proving that the rules had been violated. Nor was guidance adequate to inform the Defense Advocates or any advocate or attorney what conduct was and was not acceptable under the RPC. Despite the expanded jurisdiction granted to the JAACDC, unlike the SRPMIC Courts, the Commission found itself limited in the ability to apply standards from other jurisdictions when the RPC expressly says the duties and obligations of Advocates shall be “[t]hose prescribed to the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Rules of Community Court and Advocate Rules of Professional Conduct.” The very nature of who practices in the SRPMIC Courts is different than state of federal systems and includes both attorneys and lay advocates, regulated by the same rules.

During Complaint 1’s review, it came to Commission attention that no training on the RPC is provided to any Advocate practicing at SRPMIC. The Commission indicated that disciplining advocates who could readily raise due process defenses and who honestly could say they did not “knowingly” violate the rules despite whatever conduct was at issue, created significant regulatory problems and would be an inefficient use of resources, time, and quasi-judicial process. The Commission noted that it could hire an investigator, access an Advisory Opinion about the rules, apply it in this matter, bring formal charges, then reach an opinion, but that given the due process concerns, none of its actions was likely to improve the system into the future – especially because Complaint 1 was primarily focused on how the DA interacts with its clients to assess the client’s interest, whether an office policy exists to “shop judges” in the Defense Advocate’s interest rather than the client’s, and potential disruption to court dockets. The Commission agreed that if the DAO employs such a practice, it has significant potential to impair the judicial system and yet the Commission recognized the unique duty the DAO has to provide a defense to those who have a right to one, even when the client is recalcitrant or otherwise unavailable.

Complaint 1 Resolution/Recommendation:

The Commission dismissed Complaint 1 without prejudice, and consistent with 4-35 (f)(9), made “recommendations” to the Council, Community Manager, Judiciary, Solicitors, Prosecutor’s Office, Defense Advocates’ Office, and the Office of the General Counsel that a process be developed to provide greater clarity regarding the requirements of the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Court Rules of Professional Conduct.

The Commission also determined that should certain information come again to its attention, the Commission may by its own volition take Complaint 1 up again under 4-35 (g)(2)(a)(2).

Complaint 2: A complaint was filed against Judge Deer on December 15, 2023.

Complaint 2 alleged that Judge Deer should not have required a Motion to correct alleged failure by the Court to timely forward a child support Order to Finance for payout and should instead have amended the original Order.

Complaint 2 Resolution: The Commission dismissed the complaint which showed no misconduct based on the SRPMIC Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 5-24.1(a).

Respectfully submitted this 29th day of December, 2023.

Leaving their usual classroom at the Way of Life Facility in the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community, students in the Youth Services Program’s Quail group took a field trip to the Phoenix Zoo on January 5 for an opportunity to learn about zoo animals through the O’odham language.

“We like to take the kids outside of the Community to learn new things, so we also brought our culture specialist, Isaac Lopez, to the zoo to teach them how to say the names of the animals, colors and numbers in O’odham,” said Youth Development Specialist Sommer Lopez.

Although historically the O’odham did not have contact with zoo animals like giraffes and elephants, Lopez said groups of elder fluent O’odham speakers developed vocabulary words for some of the non-native species.

“They would give the animals a name based on the way they looked,” said Isaac Lopez. “For example, ce:v kusvakam is the name for giraffe, and it loosely translates to long or tall neck.”

While he explained the names of the animals, the first-grade students identified the numbers and colors

The Quail group had fun walking around the Phoenix Zoo and learning new words along the way. They got excited when they saw a kakaicu (quail) quickly run past them on the trail.

After making their rounds to the different animal exhibits, the students waved while saying Dom ñei, or “see you again,” to the Phoenix Zoo.

Paisley Johnson takes a look at the zoo map to see which animal exhibit her group should head to next.

SRMG Donates Snow to ECEC

Salt River Materials Group (SRMG) demonstrated its commitment to the Community this Christmas by spreading joy in a unique way. In a heartwarming gesture, SRMG donated snow to the Early Childhood Education Center (ECEC), creating a magical winter wonderland for the children to enjoy during the holiday season.

This donation transformed part of the ECEC playground into a snowy paradise, providing a memorable and enchanting experience for the young students. The initiative aimed not only to bring happiness but also to foster a sense of wonder and imagination among the children, enhancing their overall educational experience.

SRMG has been donating snow to ECEC for many years, going beyond conventional contributions and creatively addressing the needs of the Community, particularly during festive occasions like Christmas.
